

Canadian Federation of University Women – Ottawa

Capital Carillon

April General Meeting

DATE and TIME: Monday, April 1, 2019, 7:30 p.m.
PLACE: Riverside Churches, 3191 Riverside Drive, Ottawa, K1V 8N8 (by Mooney's Bay)
SPEAKER: Melanie Adrian, Associate Professor in Law and Legal Studies at Carleton University
TOPIC: Muslim youth in Canada; dancing the poetics of belonging

Dr. Adrian's research focuses on the question of rights of minorities in religiously, ethnically and culturally diverse societies. She is examining how states integrate or accommodate culturally distinct peoples

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

HEATHER LEWIS

I was reading a review of a book recently; it said the book was "painlessly educational." I thought, yes, that's what CFUW-Ottawa is, painlessly educational. Haven't the speakers at our General Meetings been excellent this year? They were certainly painlessly educational. You will have the chance to hear another great speaker on Monday, April 1st at 7:30 p.m., at the Riverside Churches; Melanie Adrian, PhD (Associate Professor, Department of Law and Legal Studies, Carleton University) will be presenting the topic of Muslim Youth in Canada: Dancing the Poetics of Belonging.

The Cabaret on March 9th was sold out and the hall was packed. I predicted that it would be fun and that prediction came true (see page 6). Thank you to Gail Tyerman and to all the performers and volunteers who made the afternoon a success. The audience loved the Lyon Street Celtic Band, the piano playing of Anita Pari and the performance of The Famous Five: Reformers and Rebels. If you liked the skit, I'm sure you will be interested in the Seminar on April 13th: Empowerment through Education (see page 8). The focus will be international.

Our Musical Lunch on April 25th is always very popular. Since the Cabaret was sold out, some of our members weren't able to get in, so don't risk missing the Musical Lunch: register quickly (see page 12).

Mayor Jim Watson, hosting his annual International Women's Day Breakfast on Friday, March 8, at Ottawa City Hall, with CFUW-Ottawa Board members Joan Tyler (left), Heather Lewis and Gail Tyerman (right). Lynne Bond and Barb Newbegin were also present at this event.

For as long as I can remember, our Ottawa AGM has been held at the International Restaurant at Algonquin College on a Monday evening. Members told me they found it difficult to get there in rush hour on a week night, so we're trying something different this year. Our Ottawa AGM will start at noon on Saturday, May 4th, at the Riverside Churches. We will give you a very good lunch for only $25 using real plates and cutlery. Wine will be available for purchase. We shall need to transact some Club business that day, including taking note of new bylaws for the Ontario Council (<https://cfuwontcouncil.org/proposed-cfuw-ontario-council-articles-and-bylaws>) and one for National (www.cfuw-ottawa.org News and Announcements, Bylaw Amendment). I shall keep the business session as short as possible, so that you will have time to socialize with your friends. There will also be the "great reveal" of the winner of this year's Pink Rose Surprise Prize and the winner of a special award from National in this Centenary year to the SAGE (the person in our Club who has been the longest member of CFUW). She hasn't been a member for 100 years, but has been a member for a very long time!

Capital Carillon is published monthly from October to May, except for January. Suggestions and comments are always welcome. Please send all material for the next issue to Alison Hobbs, newsletter@cfuw-ottawa.org. Next issue: May 2019; deadline for submissions: April 15. Previous issues are archived on the Club website, at www.cfuw-ottawa.org.

Something on a much larger scale will be the CFUW 2020 National AGM. Yes, I can now confirm that we are hosting this. The CFUW National Board has approved us as the host Club and have thanked us for taking on the challenge. We have already secured the lovely Delta Hotel as our venue. Thank you to Christine Rollo and Patricia O'Flaherty for Chairing the Local Arrangements Committee (LAC) and to Chris Narraway, our Treasurer, for handling the books for this big event. Delegates and members will be coming from all over Canada. Please note the dates: June 17-20, 2020.

I hope to see you for our next General Meeting at 7:30 p.m. on April 1st. Although it is April Fool's Day, please remember that it's not nice to try to fool the President.

while maintaining a healthy balance between international and national rights and respect for national values.

Dr. Adrian's forthcoming book Risking Religious Freedom: France, the Veil and the Right to Act on Faith argues that France, and Europe more generally, are heading down a dangerous path in their reluctance to live up to the spirit of international human rights conventions.

Dr. Adrian will discuss multiculturalism and how we have defined it. What does it really mean? How do we think about it?

Everyone is welcome to attend; you need not be a member of CFUW.

LOOKING AHEAD TO CFUW EVENTS IN 2019MARK YOUR CALENDARS!

The General Meetings will take place at the Riverside United Churches, 3191 Riverside Drive.

Wednesday, June 12 – Summer Evening Dinner For Hope, in aid of scholarships for young women in Ottawa and Kabul.

Scholarship Awards Night

Monday, March 4, at the Riverside Churches, the trustees of the CFUW-Ottawa's Scholarship Trust Fund (STF) welcomed Ottawa students, Club members and the public to our Scholarship Awards celebration, beginning with performances by the recipients of our music awards. Patricia O'Flaherty, Chair of the STF, introduced them.

Abigail Sanchez Rojas from Mexico, a second-year student from the Masters in Music program at the University of Ottawa and a repeat winner of the Barbara Newbegin Award in Music, played two piano pieces by Claude Debussy—Pagodes and Jardins sous la pluie from Estampes.

Rachel Warkentin, in her second year of undergraduate studies in the Singer / Songwriter stream of the Music Program at Carleton University, and this year's winner of the Helen Nininger Scholarship in Music, sang her own composition, Breathe, accompanying herself on the piano.

Jessie Fleet, winner of the Earl B. Connell Foundation Scholarship, delighted us by playing Pistache, from Les Épices by Bernard Andrès, on the classical harp. Jessie, from a family of regularly performing musicians, is a student in her fourth year of Undergraduate Studies in Music at Carleton University.

Following these musical performances, more than 20 additional award recipients came forward to receive their certificates from President Heather Lewis. Scientists, engineers, and mature students were among them. The newest scholarship, honouring the 100th anniversary of CFUW National was presented for the first time. Each award winner was also given a copy of the autobiography written by Dr. Ruth Bell (1919-2015) to keep as a memento of the occasion.

Our Fabulous National Gallery Group

By Dierdre Abernethy

Our group of ladies is 80 in total although we usually have 50 to 60 members attending. We meet at 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. the last Wednesday of each month (except December which is earlier in the month) during the season. I reserve one guide at 10 a.m. and two guides at 11 a.m. I have added the 10 a.m. group to ensure we do not exceed our maximum of 25 visitors per guide.

We have booked six events this season and hope to be able to see a special exhibition in May or June. The Gallery gives us a list of events that we are able to attend as a group. I then choose the events that correspond to our calendar: a mix of the permanent collection and the special, temporary exhibitions. So far this year, the Paul Klee and the Anthropocene exhibitions have been the ones most talked about.

Some of our members meet for the tours and then go for lunch after the tour. They also love to browse the Gallery's gift shop for special gifts.

Convener of the Month: Dierdre Abernethy

Dierdre Abernethy has been the Convener of the National Gallery Study Group for three seasons. She never studied the history of art but is eager to make up for lost time. "Our guides as well as some of our members are treasure troves of art knowledge," she says. She has a member of the CFUW for seven years. Her neighbour, Norma Pike, initially took her to a meeting of University Women Helping Afghan Women and introduced her to the Literature Study Interest Group 1. Dierdre is still a stalwart member of both UWHAW and the book club.

Advocacy Survey

CFUW National asked for our feedback as to what we think are the top five most pressing issues which will appear on Party Platforms for the next Federal Election. They asked us to choose from a list of thirteen topics. At our General Meeting on February 4, we distributed a survey to get feedback from a sample of our members.

In total 38 responses were submitted. Aggregate totals are based on: 0 for Not important; 1 for Negligible importance; 2 for Important; 3 for Very Important; 4 for Extremely Important.

Lynne Bond tabulated the results, which are as follows:

1. Pay Equity: 26 responses. Aggregate total 72
2. Women in Non-traditional Occupations: 23 responses. Aggregate total 51
3. Universal Childcare: 26 responses. Aggregate total 67
4. Parental leave: 22 responses. Aggregate total 55
5. Addressing Poverty: 30 responses. Aggregate total 92. Ranked #4
6. Housing & Homelessness: 34 responses. Aggregate total 113. Ranked #1
7. Universal Pharmacare: 24 responses. Aggregate total 64
8. Environment & Climate Change: 31 responses. Aggregate total 102. Ranked #3
9. Elections & Electoral Reform: 24 responses. Aggregate total 41
10. Missing & Murdered Indigenous Women: 28 responses. Aggregate total 76
11. Education for Indigenous Youth: 31 responses. Aggregate total 103. Ranked #2
12. Immigration: 32 responses. Aggregate total 86. Ranked #5
13. Gender Violence: 27 responses. Aggregate total 78

For many people, Mental Health was a recommended addition to the list.

International Women’s Day Cabaret

A sold-out crowd of CFUW-Ottawa members and their friends enjoyed a varied program of music and drama in the Riverside Churches meeting room to celebrate women’s achievements and to raise funds for our post secondary scholarships and for the Elizabeth Fry Society of Ottawa. As a result, $1,066.74 has been split equally and donated to these good causes.

The excitement started with the Lyon Street Celtic Band. CFUW-Ottawa member Lois Siegel and her bandmates played an astonishing variety of instruments, including an “Ugly Stick” named Oona. They had the audience singing along and tapping their feet. We certainly got a head start on St Patrick’s Day.

For a change of atmosphere, Ottawa musician and composer Anita Pari then mesmerized us at the piano with her interpretations of Franz Schubert’s Impromptu Op. 90 Nos. 2 and 3, and Frédéric Chopin’s Nocturne, Op. 9 No. 2. Our Club is proud to have supported Anita’s progress, having awarded her the Earl B Connell Foundation Scholarship. We feel sure she has a bright future ahead of her.

The Famous Five: Reformers and Rebels had its première at the Cabaret. This short play delved into the relevance of the “persons” case for young women today. Written by CFUW-Ottawa member Dorothy Phillips, it was developed with the help of the CFUW-Ottawa Writers’ Workshop and George Sheriff. The talented actresses soon had us all laughing, while we learned something too. Bravo!

It could not have been a CFUW event without refreshments. Delicious hors d’ouvres, wine and non-alcoholic punch helped to create a convivial atmosphere for members and guests to mix and mingle.

Many volunteers contributed to the event; their participation and support demonstrated what a great club CFUW really is. A grand day indeed.

In Memoriam: Ann Denis

By Dorothy Phillips

Ann Denis made her mark on so many activities of the Canadian Federation of University Women that we are still reeling from her sudden death in February and trying to pick up the pieces of the projects she left behind.

Ann was a new member of the CFUW Charitable Trust Fellowships committee who read and evaluate proposals for about $140,000 in scholarships given each year by our national organization. Ann was in the middle of this year's project. For several years, she worked with the Issues and Advocacy group of CFUW-Ottawa, using her research skills to help define and clarify resolutions. This year she had begun working with the Focus on GWI study group to create the program for the Empowerment Through Education seminar that takes place on April 13, 2019. She had visited Global Affairs Canada and World University Service Canada (WUSC) and had arranged a partnership between CFUW-Ottawa and WUSC in preparation for this seminar.

Ann was also the convenor of our Literature Study Group 3 in CFUW-Ottawa, often inviting the group to meet at her home, and in February, a week after her death, was to have presented and recommended Brother, by David Chariandy. We would have loved to hear her take on this book, of which she was particularly fond, now one of CBC's Canada Reads titles and the winner of a major prize. An inveterate walker, she usually refused rides to our meetings, but would often accept a ride home, talking to me about her projects and plans.

She had arranged to attend the Commission on the Status of Women meetings at the United Nations in New York this March. She usually made that trip by bus each year, representing the Canadian Research Institute for the Advancement of Women (CRIAOW). Ann was always generous in sharing her impressions of the CSW meetings and what she had learned from them. She had not yet decided about whether to attend the Graduate Women International Triennial in Geneva (July 2019) or the CFUW AGM in Winnipeg (August 2019), or both.

Ann's knowledge of issues surrounding women's education was extensive. After graduating from Carleton University she earned her PhD in Sociology from the London School of Economics in 1969. From 1973 she was professor at the School of Sociological and Anthropological Studies at the University of Ottawa, teaching in both English and French, and sometimes acting as chair of the school. Her research over many years contributed to the understanding of interrelations between gender, ethnicity/race, and class. She was renowned for her research and publications. At the University of Ottawa she established the university's research ethics committee, and was devoted to her students, serving on many dissertation examination committees throughout Canada. On her retirement in 2009, the University recognized Ann's contributions, naming her Professor Emerita. In 2013 the Ottawa International Women's Week group awarded her their Femmy Award for "Outstanding Contributions to the Struggle for Women's Equality in the National Capital Region."

Ann was married in 1979 to Greg Belkov who died in 1992. She was an active supporter of Ottawa theatre including the Ottawa Little Theatre, the Company of Fools, the Great Canadian Theatre Company and the National Arts Centre. Ann's friendly, easy going, manner and her ability and desire to get into in-depth conversations, made her a delight to be with. Her CFUW-Ottawa colleagues miss her enormously.

The Used Book Sale Table

Gently used books sell for $2, with the proceeds divided equally between our Scholarship Trust Fund and scholarships for Afghan Women at the Gawharshad Institute of Higher Learning in Kabul.

Please consider donating your paperback books to help offset what it costs for a young woman to get a university education; at the same time, you can clear your cluttered bookcase and share a great read with a fellow CFUW-Ottawa member. Due to the weight of transporting books to meetings, we are primarily looking for paperbacks.

We appreciate exact change, so please bring your toonies and loonies and the books you wish to donate to our next General Meeting. See you at the table!

EMPOWERMENT THROUGH EDUCATION

A Global Agenda for Women & Girls

You are invited to participate in this exciting seminar which will focus on the struggles experienced by women around the world, particularly refugees and women in failed and developing states, in gaining an education - and possible solutions to the barriers they must overcome. We will explore a global education agenda for women and girls from two different perspectives: the policy issues that attempt to remove barriers, and the experiences of young women from refugee contexts who have overcome the odds to pursue their education.

Prominent women with great expertise in the field of education and development in Canada and internationally will discuss the current policies of both Canada and the United Nations aimed at enhancing opportunities for women and girls within the framework of Canada's Feminist International Assistance Policy and the UN 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. Responding to those policies will be young women from the Middle East and sub-Saharan Africa who are now pursuing their university education in Ottawa. They will tell their stories and describe the education challenges and opportunities facing displaced girls and women and those living in developing countries.

This two-part seminar is a partnership between the Canadian Federation of University Women of Ottawa (CFUW-Ottawa) and World University Service of Canada (WUSC). Please let us know if you would like to volunteer to help at this event.

Did you know...?

One of the Calls to Action from the Truth and Reconciliation Commission (2015) seeks the development and mandatory implementation of "an age-appropriate curriculum on residential schools, treaties, and Aboriginal peoples' historical and contemporary contributions to Canada." Members of the Exploring Indigenous Education study and interest group are researching the extent to which this call is being implemented in Ottawa area K-to-12 schools.

The CFUW-Ottawa study and interest group Exploring Indigenous Education meets on the fourth Friday of the month. For information, contact Judith Neale Holtzhauer (judithneale@rogers.com) or Martha Musgrove (musgrom@hotmail.com).

Diplomatic Hospitality at the Wabano Centre for Aboriginal Health

Friday, February 22, the Diplomatic Hospitality Group paid an informative visit to the Wabano Centre. Established in the National Capital Region in 1998, the Wabano Centre is an urban health centre providing quality, holistic services to the First Nations, Inuit and Métis communities of Ottawa and engaging in clinical, social, economic and cultural initiatives that promote the health of all Aboriginal people.

Diplomats and Canadian members of the group had a private tour led by the Wabano Centre’s Director of Cultural Education, and were taught how to make traditional “prayer ties”.

Helping Women on the Margins Through Education

CFUW Etobicoke and UWC Toronto are hosting the Ontario Council AGM, at the U of T Faculty Club.

The theme is Celebrating the Past, Forging the Future.

We are so pleased that Kathleen Wynne will be the keynote speaker on the Saturday morning.

The workshops in the afternoon will all feature the theme

Helping Women on the Margins through Education.

Workshop moderators include

- Talisha Ramsaroor, winner of the first Pam McConnell Young Women in Leadership Award, UWC Toronto member, intake counsellor at York University, and former social planner for the Jane-Finch area for the city, will moderate a panel of students from that area who will talk about the difficulties of continuing their education given their socio-economic background.
- Mary Jo Leddy, Order of Canada, founder of Romero House, will moderate a panel of refugee girls and women who will speak about their experiences in getting equivalencies and pursuing an education in Ontario.
- Rev. Dr. Carol Finlay, Order of Ontario, founder of the Prison Book Clubs, will moderate a panel of women who have been incarcerated and who see a new path through pursuing an education.

A Raffle for GWI

In honour of CFUW's 100th Anniversary, we are pleased to announce an opportunity for you to own a unique, extraordinary piece of history. Our National VP Finance, Dominique Racanelli, discovered two beautiful blue enamel pins, created in 1924 for the third IFUW International Conference in Christiania (now Oslo), Norway, held Monday July 28 to Friday August 1 of that year. The Revenue Generating Committee of CFUW-National is making them available to the membership in a fair way, through a draw. In the 100th Year of both CFUW & GWI, For a $10 contribution, you have two chances to own one of these lovely pins. All proceeds will be directed to GWI to help pay for the unpaid GWI balance. In other words, participation in the raffle is a gesture of support for GWI.

This original design by Norwegian jeweler, David Andersen, shows an antique silver lamp, representing the light of learning, on a blue background broken with the letters IFUW in silver. Around the central disc is an interlinked chain to symbolize the bonds of friendship linking IFUW members throughout the world. The pins are silver backed and bear the numbers 190 and 163.

Our foremothers had come out of a devastating World War, dedicated to the advancement of women, with a determination to bring educated women together to turn the fight into one for peace. The name IFUW was not intended to describe a group of women who had graduated from universities. It was rather meant to be symbolic: to open the gates of universities to women so they would not be exclusively for men to enter. In other words, it was a symbol of gender equality in education. Thus began IFUW's work, and today we continue to facilitate women's opportunities for education at the highest levels.

All it will take for you to possess one of these delightful treasures is a minimum contribution of $10, allowing you two chances to win one of these historic pins. For every $10 contribution you submit, you get another two chances to win. You will have an opportunity to participate in this draw at our meetings on April 1st and May 4th.

The draw will take place before the GWI Triennial in July 2019 and the two winners will be announced on July 28, 2019, in Geneva, Switzerland.

Do you know who we are?

The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development was adopted by all United Nations Member States in 2015. It provides a shared blueprint for peace and prosperity for people and the planet, now and into the future. At its heart are the 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), which are an urgent call for action by all countries – developed and developing – in a global partnership. For more information, see: <https://www.undp.org/content/undp/en/home/sustainable-development-goals.html>

The first five SDGs are central to CFUW and Graduate Women International:

1. No poverty
2. Zero hunger
3. Good health and well-being
4. Quality education
5. Gender equality

To learn more about these SDGs check out the notice for our April 13 Empowerment Through Education seminar on page 8.

WE NEED YOUR HELP!
